This Stilwell master bathroom felt like three different rooms in one. My clients had not used there bathroom since they purchased the home, because of a bad leak and wanted to do a major update so they waited until they could do everything they wanted.

I designed the bathroom to have an elegant feel, while creating space and function. The neutral colors palate and large format tile floors gave the bathroom a spacious feel. The larger shower was more open, while creating a good focal point in the bathroom. The vanities were designed to increase countertop space and cabinet storage.
